SEMINAR ON EMPLOYMENT LAWS FOR MARINE CONTRACTORS

ASMI together with the Employment and Employability Institute (e2i) and Singapore Workforce Development Agency organised a Seminar on Employment Laws for Marine Contractors on 25 June. The half-day seminar, held at e2i, was supported by the Marine Engineering Tripartite Committee.

The seminar focused on the roles and responsibilities of marine contractors as employers, rights and obligations of employers and employees under the Employment Act and key employment terms. The session was facilitated by

MARITIME CAMPUS @ MERIDIAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

ASMI jointly organised the third Maritime Campus at Meridian Junior College on 27 April 2015 with its MaritimeONE partners from Singapore Maritime Foundation, Maritime and Port Authority of Singapore and Singapore Shipping Association. Centre. The exhibition also featured the offshore and marine engineering sector and the variety of maritime careers available in the industry. Models of vessels, jackup and semi-submersible rigs were displayed at the exhibition.

A Quiz was conducted to test the students' knowledge on Maritime Singapore. The Quiz proved to be a popular activity at the Exhibition and was effective in ensuring that the students go through the exhibits to seek out the answers to the questions asked. A Lucky Dip was also offered to draw students to visit the exhibition.

A MaritimeONE scholar, Mr Ong Kah Hin, was also present at the Maritime Exhibition to share information on his maritime course with the students.
